New Courses Added to Penn State School

In order that persons without the necessary prerequisites may enroll in more advanced courses in the future, the Penn State war training program to be held here this summer has included two courses which will so qualify them.

This instruction is in qualifying mathematics for engineering courses and industrial organization and management. Both are 30 hours in length, so that it is possible for students to enroll in both classes.

Qualifying mathematics includes the study of algebra, geometry and trigonometry, with emphasis on the algebra. It is outstanding as a "refresher" course in math and also beneficial to those who have had little math during their school years.

Since many of the advanced technical courses require registrants to have industrial experience, industrial organization and management offers training that will be accepted in substitute of actual work in industry. The study will include organization and operational controls, purchasing and stores; production control and job standardization. The problems of factory organization will be dealt with by means of laboratory problems.

Much interest has already been expressed in these two classes by industry and prospective enrollees for here is an opportunity to prepare for jobs in war industries where technical workers are badly needed. Registration will be at the high school from 7 until 10 p.
m. Monday and Tuesday, June 7 and 8.

PEEPER IS CAUGHT

A 16 year old boy possibly actuated by a desire to see "how the other half live" was rounded up on the East Side last evening and brought to police headquarters. The lad will be questioned today by police and his motives determined, if possible.

SLUDGE OIL BURNED

Sludge oil in one of the tanks on the site of the old Conewango refinery was burned out yesterday morning. The heavy smoke rising caused many to think that a fire was causing damage at the old plant and many inquiries were made relative to it.

CONCERT AT EIGHT

Eight o'clock this evening is the time for the "Senior Week" band concert to be played on the Beauty school lawn and a large attendance is anticipated. Presentation of senior band pins by Director Harry A. Summers will be a feature. The gymnasium will be the locale in case of rain tonight.

RUMOR UNFOUNDED

Rumors widespread throughout the section that yesterday's storms had done considerable damage to the Tionesta dam, bringing one telephone call from as far away as Franklin, were proved unfounded last night when the Times-Mirror talked to the office manager at the dam and found there was no truth in the statements.

ALUMNI BANQUET

All who plan to attend the 11th annual banquet of the Stoneham Alumni Association on Saturday evening are reminded to bring tureens and that they are privileged to invite a friend. There will be a small charge of 25 cents for expenses incurred and the committee will provide coffee, cream, rolls and cake. Serving will be at 6:30 p. m.

TREES DESTROYED

The storm that swept over this section Tuesday and which damaged Midway on Chautauqua Lake caused some damage to properties along the lake owned by Warren residents. On the properties of Mark Cowden and John Harrington, of this city several large trees were blown down and ruined. Fortunately their cottages were not damaged.

NATTY MILK GIRL

The movies have displayed cowgirls in leather packets with oodles of fringe but it remained for the Dyke Milk Company to present to Warren a natty milk girl attired in a suit of brilliant slacks. She was delivering milk about town this morning and her costume was right in time with the bright red of the Dyke truck on which she was working. This gasoline short-age does have some advantages.

GOVERNMENT WORKERS

There were one million civilian employees of the Federal Government in June, 1940. In November 1942, there were 2,750,101. By June 1943, the rolls will have swelled to 2,970,000, and by June, 1944, a record number of 3,572,000 will have been reached.

Motorists Must Have Stickers Soon

The department of revenue through the local barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police reminds motor vehicle owners that the semi-annual inspection period is again in full swing and urges car owners not to delay in complying with this legal safety requirement. Official inspections began May 1 and the new red Keystone sticker should by now appear in the lower right hand corner of every windshield, according to the officials.

A serious shortage of garage mechanics, a thousand less inspection stations operating than a year ago, difficulty in obtaining parts for repairs and the problem of travel presented by federal rationing are reasons advanced by the revenue department in urging motorists to avoid delay in having cars inspected.

It is also pointed out that the car inspection, always a sound and necessary safety precaution, becomes even more vital today in the effort to conserve vehicles that will have to serve for the duration of the war. Many thousands of working men and women are dependent upon cars for transportation in war work and any breakdown of equipment that might have been avoided by proper inspection would result in loss of man hours essential to war production.

Garage owners throughout the state have been making every effort to provide prompt and efficient inspection. Classes for the instruction of mechanics have been held under the sponsorship of the Pennsylvania Automotive Association and efforts have been put forth to obtain the cooperation of car owners to avoid last minute congestion.

Under the law there can be no extension of the inspection period, owners are again reminded.

Girl Scout Leaders Feted With Banquet Tuesday Night

Twelve new Girl Scout leaders were guests of honor at a dinner-meeting of Troop 100, composed of all adults in Girl Scouting, at the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday evening.

They were Evelyn Boyd, Constance Dey, Mildred Dunkle, Anne Krantz, Elizabeth Lopez, Betty Mason, Mrs. Sarah Metzger, Mrs. Helen Morrow, Beatrice Myers, Alberta Ristau, Miss Caroline Reynolds and Geraldine Samuelson. Five other new leaders, Mrs. Guilford Branch, Dorothy Ward, Mrs. M. McClure, Mrs. Lindgren and Mrs. W. J. Baldensperger were unable to be present.

These leaders are all from the Warren area. Leaders who have been recruited in other towns in the county bring the total that will mean success for the campaign for a doubled Girl Scout membership by the first of the year.

Mrs. G. L. Cochran, the former Miss Jean Koebley, spoke briefly on the need of Girl Scout leadership as greater than ever before. From her experience as a Girl Scout for seven years and then as a leader, Mrs. Cochran is able to speak with knowledge of the effectiveness and the need of the Girl Scout program in situations in war plant areas such as the one in which she lives near Baltimore.

Badges denoting membership in the Civilian Service Corps were presented to leaders and council members present who have given 50 or more hours of volunteer service to Girl Scouting since March, 1942. Those who received badges were Mrs. R. W. Mackay, Mrs. Vance Weld, Mrs. D. E. Conway, Mrs. Harold Stohl, Mrs. N. K. Wendelboe, Mrs. Karl Nichols, Mrs. W. P. Mathyer, Mrs. E. E. Koebley, Mrs. A. J. Weller, Mrs. Robert Carlson, Mrs. Hugh Logan, Mary Jane Stone, Mrs. Robert Specht, Mrs. Merton Irvine, Miss

Hulda Angermann and Mrs. H. M. Boyd.

A short meeting of the Warren County Girl Scout Leaders' Association, for the purpose of installing new officers for the coming year, was called by Mrs. A. J. Weller, retiring president. In resigning her position, Mrs. Weller called attention to the fact that there are three officers of the Leaders' Association and that units of three seem to run through the Girl Scout program beginning with the Girl Scout promise which has three parts and which is represented in the Girl Scout emblem by the trefoil.

Mrs. Robert Carlson accepted the office of president, thanking the organization for the honor and assuring the group of her deep interest in the welfare of the club. Mrs. Robert Specht, vice-president and Mrs. Hugh Logan, secretary treasurer, took their respective places in preparation for the next meeting which will be held in September.

Dodgers Again Demonstrate Their Dogged Determination

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals may be the world's champions, or, as Manager Billy Southworth calls them, the world's greatest ball club, but the Brooklyn Dodgers have to be rated as the most dogged, determined gang of diehards in the major leagues.

This spring the Cardinals have sparkled and glittered and won the admiration of all their rivals in the National League.

The Dodgers haven't looked good, a collection of old geezers with aches and pains.

Yet the Dodgers have held first place since the first day of the season and nothing the Cardinals have been able to do has been sufficient to dislodge them.

Last night they seemed ready to fall. The Cardinals had humiliated all the Dodgers' strongest, fastest pitchers and were within half a game of taking over the lead. Southworth had Max Lanier ready, a southpaw who had beaten Brooklyn five times last year and once this spring.

Leo Durocher had to take a chance on the only left-hander he has on his staff, Max Macon, who couldn't dent a custard pie at arm's length and who hadn't pitched a complete ball game all season.

Macon still hasn't pitched a complete game, but he beat the Cardinals last night to even their four-game series and restored Brooklyn to a game and a half lead. The score was 3-2 and the raging Redbirds who had made 20 hits the day before, who had obtained Danny Litwiler from the Phillies and installed him as cleanup hitter, were limited to seven safeties.

Meanwhile, the American League scramble for first place became even closer than the National as the Chicago White Sox whipped the New York Yankees 2-1 and the Washington Senators squeaked the Cleveland Indians 13-1 in a night game. This lumped the Yanks and Senators in a virtual tie for the lead, although New York had the benefit of a few percentage points, .576 to .568.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
New York, June 3.—(P)

"Speed-up" baseball sounds like a good idea to a lot of folks, but prexy Will Harridge of the American League doesn't think it will work very well. For one thing, the ump's can't do much but hurry the players along between innings, and if they try to out short the pitchers' antics on the mound, they're liable to hear a lot of pointed, ear-burning questions from the managers about whether they have a date that night. As for Billy Evans' plan of making a finger who is left on base go right to the mound without visiting the bench, Will thinks that when the weather gets really hot, Billy will find the boys need the bracing spell. Besides, Har- ridge adds, "we played a night game in an hour and 29 minutes recently and the fans didn't get enough. They had to flick the lights a few times to start them moving out."

Comeback Money
Tony Galento, throwing love pats, scored a knockout on Herbie Katz. The commission asked, "what could be worse?" And then impounded Tony's purse.

One-Minute Sports Page
Gil Godds, Boston's triple-threat theologian, has it all figured out that Gunder Haegg already has reached this country and is "out in the woods, somewhere training for his races." Charley Jones, Sammy Angott's manager, reports that he has six promising yearlings on his Goshen, Ky., horse farm and one of them, a son of Johnstown, has just the same markings as his Pa. . . . Bonny Horne, the Niles, Ohio, middleweight, was born only 60 feet from the birthplace of President McKinley. . . . Herb Kopf, Manhattan's volatile football coach, complains that the hardest thing about being in the midst of the football doldrums is just sitting still. "It's terrible for a guy who lives to move around the way I do," says Herb. . . . A "tip" relayed by Buck (Louisville Times) Weaver is that the Charleston, W. Va., race track is about to close because of gas restrictions. The next big baseball announcement will come from St. Louis—probably today.

You pay for Quality why not get it?

Quality in beer is tangible—easily identified. For instance, the smooth mellowness of Duquesne Pilsener is the definite result of actual aging—the deep delicious flavor, the freedom from after-taste, can only be attributed to the art and skill of a master brewer—and the delightful delicious taste; the true brewery flavor, is the direct result of the use of choice, extra fine grain.

So, when you order beer—ask for Duquesne Pilsener by name—you pay for quality; why not get it?

HIGHWAY TO HER HEART

MAXINE SHORE

Chapter 25

FORT ST. JOHN, southern terminus of the new Alcan highway, historic trading post, frontier village—the goal of all their hopes for days—at last here it was!

Penny stepped joyfully ashore. Then came Wolf frisking at her heels, pausing to sniff uncertainly amidst so much confusion. Cleve, Powell and the guide were already stretching cramped legs on the hard-packed, "landing." Farther along were wharves cluttered with merchandise and freight in a covey-river. A Hudson's Bay Company's steamer, tied up at the pier, was unloading cargo.

In one sweeping glance, Penny took in the scene, or as much as she could. Like Hudson's Hope, but in a different way, it was breathtaking. This was frontier, not wilderness. . . . a town mushrooming into a city almost overnight.

"Golly," said Cleve, "listen to the hammering and sawing, will you? The racket! Penny, were you back in Big Time?"

"America, soldiers, too," Penny answered, pointing. "Look at 'em!"

It was boom town, army camp, important airways center rolled into one. Big planes flashed high over the river. They could see huge six-wheel trucks roaring off along the highway. There were tractors, steam-shovels, ditch-diggers—all the mechanized tools of modern road building.

"What a whole of a job it was and is," Powell said, much impressed.

The guide, Baptist Fontaine, had already unloaded the canoe. "I find ze hotel for you presently," he said. "I show you where."

"But the hospital?" Penny asked. "What direction, Baptist? I want to go there first."

Baptist didn't know. Powell turned to Penny. "Don't worry about that, darling," he said. "We'll make inquiries. Cleve, you'd better come along, too, and have that wound dressed."

CLEVE'S gaze snapped back to the light. It was full of warning. "Gosh, to think we're here!" he exclaimed. "You bet I'll come along!"

Afterward Penny only dimly recalled how she'd got there, walking, but wanting to run. How she'd bumped into pedestrians on the boardwalk. How crowded restaurants, offices, banks . . . she passed them all. She was straining at Powell's arm, looking straight ahead—seeing and seeing nothing.

Finally, Powell said, "Here it is. Now brace up, Penny!"

Through burning eyes Penny regarded the attendant at the desk.

"Room 18," he said, glancing approvingly at Penny.

Penny shot through the door, ahead of Cleve and Powell, and plunked straight into Bill's reaching arms. Then she stepped back, looking at him.

"Bill!" she cried. "I knew it! You're okay. You're not—not smashed up at all."

Bill was making queer noises in his throat. "Just a few scars," he answered. He extended a hand to Cleve. Then to Powell. "Lord, what a delegation! Where's the rest of the gang? Spot News Pictures, Incorporated planning to open up a branch office in Alaska, or what?"

"We're taking over the Alcan Highway," Cleve grinned. "Bill, you look great."

"You certainly do," Powell said. "Two collarbones and a couple of broken ribs. Nothing much." Bill shrugged his shoulders. "For a while I lost the use of my arms."

"It's wonderful!" Penny said, hugging him again. "You're really walking around. Oh, Bill! Now the tears were starting. She shook them out of her eyes. Bill was staring at her.

"Penny, what—where did you pick that up? You're browner than a Cree. Your nose is peeling."

Cleve laughed. "We've been fishing out in the hot sun."

"Get anything?"

"Yeah, cut i Powell, 'some flits. They were yours, Bill."

Then Bill noticed Cleve's arm. They had to tell him the story. Sometimes Penny told it, sometimes Powell, sometimes Cleve—then they were all talking at once.

Cleve ended with—"But it's the tot here who really deserves most

Sunset League Opens Season At 6:15 Tonite

Tonight at 6:15 marks the opening of the Times-Mirror Sunset League activity in Warren and a good crowd is expected to give it its initial sendoff.

Struthers-Wells and the Warren Pirates clash in the opening encounter in what appears to be a pitching duel between Jim Rose of the defense crew and Jimmy Urbanski of the Pirates.

Struthers-Wells is placing a well-oiled outfit on the field tonight rounded around some veterans and newly recruited players, and although they are entering their first game tonight, they are expected to show a good brand of ball from the start.

The Pirates are a newly formed club in town with a couple of top-notch pitchers and recently have been knocking off the best teams in town in non-league affairs.

The Struthers team will be carrying the banners of the State Hospital in action tonight due to the late arrival of uniforms.

Sensational Runner Is On Way to States

Stockholm, June 3.—(P)

American track fans, impatient for a glimpse of the running form of Gunder Haegg, Sweden's sensational distance performer, will have to be patient about a month longer. The record-smashing athlete won't be able to make his United States debut before July 1.

He is scheduled to arrive in New Orleans aboard the tanker Saturnus June 8, but it will take him three weeks to lose his sea legs, which means he will miss the A. A. U. championships in New York June 19 and 20.

The long ocean voyage has hardened Haegg's springy legs muscles and caused him to gain weight, a correspondent of the Aftonbladet accompanying the runner reports.

The Saturnus encountered stormy weather the first three days and Haegg got little exercise. After that he began running two hours daily, with hourly morning and afternoon sessions on deck. One day he ran 3,000 meters in 10 minutes.

The bobbing deck is a far cry from the springy turf, however, and Haegg's leg muscles, part of the secret of his speed, have suffered accordingly. He also has gained six pounds despite daily visits to the ship's steam bath.

The distress call "S O S" was adopted internationally in 1906.

Experts Say Take it Easy In Cultivating Gardens

The Old Fashioned Hoe, Well Sharpened, Does a Fine Job in Cultivating.

Victory gardeners should be glad to hear that experts who argue heatedly over the advantages of cultivation, nowadays, all agree on one point—when you do cultivate, take it easy.

If you keep your tools sharp—an important point—and never neglect your garden long enough to let weeds grow big, you can run down the aisles between the rows of vegetables with no more physical exertion than is required to sweep a floor.

Deep cultivating, which stirs the soil several inches deep, is definitely out for garden crops. Experiments have demonstrated that deeply stirred soil dries out faster, and that this form of cultivation, which is very hard work, is likely to disturb the roots of your vegetable plants, and do more harm than good.

The right way to cultivate is to keep far enough away from the vegetables, so that you do not even disturb the roots which lie close to the surface, for these are the oldest roots and continue to play an important part in nourishing the plant, even when it grows large.

And cultivate just deep enough—an inch or so—to break the soil crust and uproot the tiny white sprouts of weeds, which are just beginning to grow.

In normal times you might choose your cultivators from a great variety; some gardeners used to have as many cultivators as a golfer has clubs. Nowadays, you use what you can get, and it is good to know that the old fashioned goose-neck hoe is a most satisfactory tool for all cultivating tasks. If you need a hand cultivator, to use in the vegetable row or in small corners where a big hoe cannot function, then a putty knife makes a good one, if you cannot get a better.

Cultivate after every rain, when the soil has dried out enough to crumble. Begin cultivating as soon as your crops appear above the surface, and there is no reason why a weed should ever grow in the garden which requires to be pulled by hand. Except of course in the hours' work on your knees, pulling up the weeds, usually when you are thinning out the crop, will usually clean up the rows for the entire season.
